

You are invited to attend a lecture by Alice Eagly

professor of Psychology at Northwestern University

On Sept. 18, 2008 at 4:30 pm

at the Schenley Lounge, Pittsburgh Athletic Association

Women and the Labyrinth of Leadership

Response by Professor Linda Babcock, Carnegie Mellon University

One of the nation's leading scholars on gender and leadership, Alice Eagly, has written a powerful new book, The Labyrinth of Leadership, that re-examines the path women must follow to assume leadership positions in all types of organizations. Professor Eagly questions conventional wisdom about the so-called "glass ceiling," and argues instead that women must navigate a complex labyrinth of issues and challenges on their way to the top.

- Examining the labyrinth to the executive suite
- How some women successfully navigate this labyrinth
- Implications for career management and corporate policy

Sept. 18, 2008 at 4:30 pm

Schenley Lounge, Pittsburgh Athletic Association

Light refreshments will be served

RSVP to:

JII Johnson Institute for Responsible Leadership

E-Mail: ethics@gspia.pitt.edu

Call: 412-648-1336