SICHUAN UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1896, Sichuan University is one of the three oldest universities in mainland China. It is one of the most prestigious national key universities in education, research, and social impact.

The university went through two mergers:

- In 1994, merged with Chengdu University of Science and Technology;
- In 2000, merged with West China University of Medical Sciences.

SICHUAN UNIVERSITY

As one of the few most prestigious universities in China, Sichuan University commits itself to world-class teaching, learning, and research, serving as an innovation engine that propels China to a new stage of development.

With 33 colleges and professional graduate schools covering 12 categories of disciplines, Sichuan University is recognized as a large comprehensive university of many disciplines in the country. In Sichuan University, over 4000 faculties graduate from world renowned research universities and give diverse and in-depth courses to our 40,000 undergraduate students and 20,000 graduate students, as well as over 3000 international students. Sichuan University provides generous financial supports to both domestic and international students.

Sichuan University faculties actively engage in the global knowledge network and push the limits of human knowledge in new energy, human health, material science, arts, etc. The full-spectrum of disciplines within Sichuan University is comparatively advantageous to encourage researchers of different areas to collaborate for addressing complex challenges.

Sichuan University alumni enjoy profound social impact, some of them were/are policy makers in the central and provincial governments, some are academic professionals at research universities, and some act as public and private sector professionals involved in today's dynamic and global economy.

Sichuan University has engaged itself in varied global academic communities by establishing cooperative relationships with over 248 world renowned universities and research institutes in 42 countries and regions. We have established all-dimensional, multi-layer, and varied types of staff and students exchanges programs with 213 leading research universities from over 30 countries including the United States, Canada, Australia, Great Britain, France, and Germany, etc. Sichuan University expects to join hands with more universities in academic and research collaborations.

ABOUT UNIVERSITY IMMERSION PROGRAM

Summer Experience with the Pulse of China's New Future: University Immersion Program (UIP)

The two-week University Immersion Program (UIP) organized by Sichuan University is a unique summer program for international faculties and students to experience the pulse at the heart of China. This program is designed to convene faculties from all over the world to give short courses and lectures to both domestic and international students at both undergraduate and graduate levels. UIP was initiated in 2012 and now a regular long-term program.

ACQUIRE KNOWLEDGE

UIP courses are given by professors from world-class universities worldwide, covering a wide range of topics including natural sciences, medicine, arts, law, business, and literature, etc.

ACQUIRE EXPERIENCE

UIP delivers new experience to participating international faculties and students by demonstrating China's past, present, and future in one burgeoning city, through various activities and field trips.

ACQUIRE CONNECTIONS

More than 700 international faculties and 2000 international students from all over the world participated in this program since 2013. It provides opportunities to meet new friends and find academic collaborations.

TEACHER'S OPPORTUNITY

Sichuan University invites academics worldwide to submit Bachelor-level course proposals covering international knowledge, enlightening, inspiring and critical thinking that focus in interdisciplinarity.

The University Immersion Program offered by Sichuan University is a two-week internationally renowned program that was launched in the summer of 2012. This program aims to bring together students worldwide so as to give all participants an opportunity to associate and make friends with each other, and stimulate their global awareness and inter-cultural communications.

LECTURING

Lecture should be taught in English. The invited faculty shall give at least one course (one credit, 16 academic hours).

CLIMATE/WEATHER

Chengdu has a subtropical monsoon climate; the average temperature in summer is about 28 degrees Celsius. A distinctive feature of the climate is the frequent cloudiness. What calls for special attention is the humidity in summer, it makes people feel hotter than the temperature presents.

PERSONAL BELONGINGS

The responsibility in caring for all your personal belongings, including passport and luggage falls on you. Always keep your room locked and do not leave any property unattended for in public at all times. Participants are advised to acquire their own travel insurance, and an extension of insurance policy to cover personal possessions is advised as well. Be aware that Sichuan University does not cover individuals of any cancellations of bookings, any damage of belongings or lost by thievery.
